

This comment is in regards to the challenge of the Indiana Telephone Privacy Law by the Consumer Bankers Association. I have been a resident of Indiana for 4 years which only 2 of those years have I been listed on the Indiana Privacy Law list. When I moved here I was bombarded with annoyances of all types including massive amounts of junk mail and numerous unsolicited phone calls. I have felt at times that I would just cancel my phone service due to those annoyances but I feel that I shouldn't have to. I feel like companies who feel the need to attack me with their offers at my home, during my dinner time or while I'm giving my 2 year old a bath, only stand to get looked upon like bullies. I was relieved when I heard about the privacy list. I had just given birth and didn't want annoying phone calls waking up my newborn. I have moved a couple times and had my number changed, it was nice when the list kicked back in for my new numbers. The list made a big difference and I have peace in my home. Please don't change the law.

Thank you for listening.
